

Kimberly Olivares
Chief Performance Officer, City of Austin

Kimberly Olivares is the Chief Performance Officer for the City of Austin. Austin is home to nearly 1,000,000 people, has an operating budget of $4.2 billion, and a capital program with annual spending of over $1 billion. Kimberly leads the Office of Performance Management (OPM) which supports the City's commitment to instill a culture of continuous learning and improvement throughout the organization. In that role, OPM is responsible for the City's organization wide strategic planning, award-winning performance measurement and organizational alignment program, performance-based data analytics, and Operational Excellence process improvement consulting service. Previously, she served as Deputy Budget Officer for the City where she managed the capital improvements program finances, financial services information technology support team, and performance measurement program. She has also worked for the City of Southlake (TX) and City of Tampa (FL). Kimberly holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Notre Dame, a Master of Public Affairs from the University of Texas – Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, and a Master of Business Administration from St. Edward's University. She is also the Chair of the Government Finance Officers Association's Committee on Economic Development and Capital Planning.