E-mail: mihmj@gao.gov

Chris Mihm is the Managing Director for Strategic Issues at the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO). He leads GAO's work on government-wide governance, strategy, and performance issues.

From 2012 through 2017, Chris was an elected member of the United Nations Independent Audit Advisory Committee, where he advised the General Assembly on the effectiveness of the internal audit, risk management, and other issues. He chaired the Committee from 2013-2016 and was the Vice Chair in 2017.

Chris is the Deputy Chair of the Audit and Compliance Committee of the Fédération Internationale de Football Association (FIFA).

He is a fellow and former Board Chair of the National Academy of Public Administration and an adjunct lecturer in public administration at the University Of Maryland Graduate School Of Public Policy.

In January 2019, he begins a 4 year term on the World Health Organization's Independent Expert Oversight Advisory Committee.
